UX before there was UX

My role is to work within business-centric cultures and advocate for users and usability, but most importantly of all, for experiences. I have been designing and advocating for user experience design since before the term “UX” was coined. I have presented designs and research to companies in many audience-centric ways.

As a UX lead for multiple companies, I have lead UX research and testing, as well as business-focused designs. One of my strengths is aligning business goals with design and technologically feasible execution. I am a technology-design-business liaison in many respects.

As a design instructor for the past several years, I have been inspiring students to think about the audience first in their design. I have helped inform cultural change at a leadership level through these students.

As a UX Designer* at EMC2, my challenge was to persuade software engineers to think their work must be engaging and usable to reach a broad audience. In fact, I was the first to bring personas and design thinking to the company’s table in the early 2000’s. My work has helped convince project managers, stakeholders, and engineers alike that planning for usability is undeniably part of good development practice.

*Actual title was Senior Applications Engineer

NEIA - UX | Ui Instructional and Training

CHALLENGE: Engage and instruct new college students in modern design thinking, style, methods and tools.

MY ROLE: As a Graphics & Web instructor I was in a unique position to guide young student through to tools and methodologies of modern design including Introduction to coding for the web, Introduction to Advanced use of the Adobe Creative Suite(Cloud) UX Design Tools like: Sketch, Adobe XD, SilverBackApp, Balsamiq, Axsure and Design Methodologies like Design Thinking, UX Guerrilla Testing , Wireframing and Rapid Prototyping

RESULT: Over the period of 10 years and hundreds of students I have past grads in all major aspects of our industry with the majority in the UX discipline. They are working in high-level Fortune 500 Companies, Agencies and small shops across America.

EMC2 - CCA5* - UX UI Focused - Enterprise Level

CHALLENGE: As the team first UX/UI lead, I needed to forge paths across silos in a historically divided company group. Field managers desperately needed a tool, to manage enterprise level devices. The issue was the tools were command line and needed a visual method of control.

MY ROLE: Working with stakeholder and end users of the CCA product I introduced personas as a design and development tool. Allowed for a clearer understanding of the needs of the target audience. I designed a "drag and drop" style interface for Field managers to visually understand the network environments under their management. I worked closely with the engineering groups to implement design ideas and style and make the CCA 5 Tool a success

RESULT: During my tenure, the CCA5 application being used by 5000 unique users across the globe. The speed and knowledge due to the visual UX | UI they were able to manage the network environments resulting in less network collision and cost saving estimated in the millions annually.

StageVita Project -UX,UX Testing and UI Design focus Consumer Project

CHALLENGE: StageVita was a UX/Design project for amateur theater participants. The Business goal was to provide a simple audience friendly tool for actors, and amateur theater workers to share, post manage theatrical resumes. These are lovers of the arts and not professional actors.

MY ROLE: UX and Visual Designer I created and tested design ideas. After understanding needs, I conducted interviews with local target audience members from this wireframes, and visual prototypes were created and tested including A/B testing. Based on that testing s report was made to the site owners.

RESULT: Based on my report after testing and early design the project owners decided to halt development for the foreseeable future. Project initiated by a group of individuals self-funding.

T-scape - Branding and UI Focuses

CHALLENGE: Client is a small -medium sized landscape business that needed to move to the next level due to the customer base. Design material was created by family and friends so there was a natural bias toward a design that did not represent the new vision of the company.

MY ROLE: Designing and developing web presence in mid 2000's led to assisting in marketing materials including responsive HTML email campaigns. Over the course of our relationship a re-branding opportunity arose in which I was able to engage the business owner and help him to rebrand his company

RESULT : Higher impact on consumers with the brand being re-inforced and creating a brand identity of quality and service. There has been a sales increase year over year since my involvement
